Before you start building your list I thought you would find it useful to ATTRACT people to open your emails. Let's face it, if no one open's your email what good is sending it out? This is especially true when using the list building sites below. The sites below can help you tremendously but the key is to get your OWN list of Double opt-in subscribers. If you are new this can be very challenging, trust me I know I have been there. Let me start you off with 5 Ways to Get People to Open Your Emails.

"5 Ways to Get People to Open Your Emails"

Internet marketing can be much cheaper than offline marketing. And a big reason why is because email is free. However, if no one opens your emails, what's the point of even sending them? This has been a problem for years for many Internet Marketers. Let's take a look at five main ways to get people to open your emails. These ways are time tested and proven to work.

(1) Invite people to opt-in and sign up for your free report. Tell them updates will come regularly, weekly supplements to save in a file. People like free stuff and information that is good. Don't spam them, though, and start sending junk. Keep your content fresh and helpful for them so that they'll keep coming back. Make sure you supply the new subscriber with instant gratification. This can be accomplished by sending an email to the new subscriber the moment he/she submits their name and email address. In this email thank them for their interest in your site and have the download link in that email for the free report you promised. This will get you off to a good start and make the beginnings of a great relationship with your new subscriber

(2) Include informative and exciting headlines to (a) brand your emails so that people know who they are from and want to open them (b) entice readers to open them. For example, use something like, "IM (Internet Marketing) Report: 7 Top Email Marketing Tips to Open Your Eyes!" Using the text I have in Bold in every subject line you send out let's people know it's you. By branding yourself you make it easy for your subscribers to know who the email is from. Let's face it, your subscribers are on plenty of other people's lists and you need to do everything you can to stand out above the rest and get your emails opened. Branding is one great way to do this.

(3) Run your email messages through a spamming software test like Spam Assassin at <http://www.spamassassin.apache.org>. Check with your auto responder or email hosts to see if they have any of this software already in place, like Aweber does. This software helps you weed out unwanted spamming phrases that trigger filters to delete your email before your clients get to read them. This is a step many people overlook but in reality this should be the next thing you do after writing your email to your subscribers.

(4) Follow the law and have your mailing address and a working unsubscribe link with in your messages. Simply knowing you have these in every mailing increases readership because people know you are not trying to trick them with unwanted junk content. Plus filters won't remove these when they spot your information inside, increasing the deliverability and hence readership factors. Plus, by having this information inside you will be complying with anti-spam laws thus helping to solidify you as someone to be trusted.

(5) Educate your subscribers about the ability to white list your email address and domain name. This allows your emails to pass through filters. All white listing does is makes certain your email will be delivered to your subscriber. White listing is when a subscriber or anyone for that matter adds your email address to their safe list of emails that they accept without hesitation.

The better prepared you are and the better you prepare your subscribers and list recipients, the better your chances of people opening your emails. If you follow these steps your open rates will increase on the emails you send out. The more open emails, the better chance you have to generate revenue and a fan base.

It is so easy to get lost in the pile of emails people receive on a daily basis. This is why it is so important to follow the steps outlined above. You have to start the relationship off right so make sure you follow step 1 to a tee. People want instant gratification and nothing less. This is just the way it is in our society. If you fail to deliver on this crucial first step you are heading for a disappointing ending.

One last thing. Do not resort to using anything other than text in your subject line. Spam filters do not like too much punctuation in the subject line and will filter your email to the junk folder before you can say hi. If you have to use punctuation stick to one usage with either an exclamation point, question mark or a period. Use this information to start getting your emails opened and read, it works for me and will work for you.

Now that you know how to get and train people to open your email's lets talk about what to put in the subject line. This is crucial when trying to build your own list.

"How to Write Attention-Grabbing Headlines"

Reach out and grab your readers with attractive, click persuasive and winning headlines. Watch as your promotional ROI (return on investment) increases fast! Follow the steps below and turn those browsers into buyers by sucking them into your advertisement or sales page with irresistible Headlines.

Below are 7 ways that you can attract readers and more importantly buyers of your product or service. If you use one or all of them it doesn't matter, just use these techniques I have outlined for you.

How To... - This is one of the top performing headlines. People want to learn steps, how to do something. For example, "How to Write Attention Grabbing Headlines" or "How to Spot a Fake Louie Vuitton". So tell them!

News Headline – Get to the point right off the bat. "Service Company Teams up To Fill in Gaps with Children's Fundraiser." Then write that inverted pyramid style with the most detailed information (who, what, when, where, why, how) on top.

Featured Benefit Headline – Disclose your biggest benefit right at the top. Draw attention by opening in grand style, "Marketers Get Over 50% of Their Emails Opened with New Auto responder Technology." Do you see who was benefited in the preceding headline? It's as plain as the nose on your face right? That's how you want it to be. Do not make people guess or this will lead to confusion.

Solve A Problem – Pick a popular problem being discussed in your niche or industry and then use it to your advantage. For example, "Turn Your Private Label Products into Profits in 5 Minutes with This New Audio Mastery Series." How about, "Double Your List Size in 7 Days With This Viral Software." See how I got your attention with a headline proposing a solution to a problem?

Share Personal Discovery – Create interesting story angles out of your own would-be bloopers like, “Everyone Told Me I’d Never Be Able to Quit My Day Job, But I Did It in One Month and with only a $10 Investment!” Try this one, “Wrong Email to Wrong List Leads to Unexpected Profits!” Do not be afraid to admit mistakes. We are all human and letting your prospective customers and list members will know this will improve your relationship with them.

Case Study or Testimonial Headline – Similar to (e), place the focus on those interesting story angles of others; for example, “Jack Stuffed My Mailer in the Trash, Then Dug It Out, Listened to the Audio Files, and Earned $12,457 in Just 30- Days!”

Guarantee Headliners – Add your bottom line up top, “Earn Your Money Back in 30 Days or Less or I’ll Double Your Money Back!” Also, “Double Your Money Back if You Don’t Double Your Money!”

For plenty more ideas, and more targeted ones for your specific niches and industries, head to www.usatoday.com, www.prweb.com and other media sites. Read their headlines to see which ones professionals came up with and put to work. Also grab your local newspapers and any magazines you have around your office and home. Read the headlines for more ideas and try them out for your own articles, websites and press releases. Some magazines you would never think of to get headlines to try from are The Enquirer or The Star. I know they are a little out there with their content but their headlines are masterful at getting you to pick up the magazine and getting you to read.

Put any of these top formulas to work on your websites, articles and press releases. I can assure you that you will receive a better response to your ads than previous attempts. The ways to format your headlines above are tried and tested, don’t try and change the wheel on this one. Make it easy on yourself and just follow what has been proven to work.

Today it is harder than ever to get people to read what you want them to. Heck, it’s hard enough to get them to stop for a second to do so. Everyone is so busy these days and in a give it to me now society you have to give it to them now. Writing headlines that get straight to the point is what will cause people to stop and take notice. Make sure you put a lot of thought into your headlines and watch your ROI skyrocket!

One last bit of information before I want to reveal to you is How to Boost your Opt-In rates.

“How to Boost Your Opt-In Rates”

Since the most important asset you can have doing business on the Internet is having your own opt-in list, I thought I'd give you a few ways to boost your opt-in rate. Let me point out that it's beneficial to have your own list in "any" market/niche you're involved in, not just Internet marketing. If your market is squash, cricket or space flight, you need to have a list of subscribers. The size of your list is directly proportional to the amount of money you can earn in your market/niche. The bigger your list the more money you will earn!

O.K., now that I have stressed the importance of a list, here are some tips on how to effectively get people to opt-in:

(1) Drive traffic to a page solely made for gaining a name and email address, otherwise known as an opt-in page. Do not give the visitor any other option than to either opt-in or close out of the page itself. It is very important to refrain from putting any outbound links on this page as well. You only want them to have the two options; opt-in or close out of the page, nothing else.

(2) You have to sell the opt-in. Yes, you heard it right, you have to sell the opt-in just like you would if you were selling your own product. You need to describe how being on your list will benefit the potential subscriber. Setting up bullets on key reasons to join your list has been proven to increase your opt-in rate. Giving away a free report like this one with good content is always a winner.

(3) Let me ask you, when you commit to something via time or financially, you like to have instant gratification or close to it right? Of course you do and so does a potential subscriber to your list. Tell the potential subscriber that above and beyond the reasons to opt-in, they will receive something of value. This could be an e-book, audio seminar or video on something that has value. Make sure you let them know that they will be receiving this gift immediately upon opting in. Also, make sure that the gift you give them is something of true value, something you could actually sell and make money off of. You can even put a small value attached to it, like $17 or $37, not too high though. You want to be realistic. If you give them something of true value right off the bat they will be more willing to stay with you as a valued subscriber.

(4) Another way to boost opt-in's is through the use of an email mini course. Standard email mini courses are from 5 to 7 parts usually sent one part per day. The course can be on something like: "Improve opt-in rates in 5 days" or "7 ways to increase your conversion rate." It can be anything related to your individual market or niche, just make sure it's genuine and good content. Make sure they get their first issue of the mini course immediately upon their opting in. Remember, instant gratification!

I hope these tips will help you in your list building endeavors. Make sure you have an auto responder in place. It makes it a lot easier to set up the email mini series and downloads for bonuses you may have promised.

Implement the strategies listed above and take ACTION! No one is going to give you a list; you have to go get it. So do it now.

Now, start perusing the sites below and start making your advertising efforts work for you instead of against you.
